

Why do I continually end up like a child frustrated exasperated and any other. ...ated you can think of.. just done . Then I wonder why I'm upset for I'm at the feet of Him who loves beyond measure. So maybe this is a way He gets my attention or He provides a respite. This paradox of being my most unsafe feeling until I realize I'm in my safest place... the I break for awhile often then I come bacwak. Like I've been away from myself and I'm returning home to But I'm good at using some mental vehicle to get through the break water but then it breaks like a crystal card house I'm back to the one square waiting to go do it go through it again.. but I do
